TACTILE LAUNCHES NEW WEBSITE FOR FORMER MAYOR MICHAEL A. NUTTER

The Tactile Group (Tactile) today announced the launch of a new website for former Philadelphia Mayor Michael A. Nutter, a digital presence that supports Nutter's current work as a university professor, political commentator, urban strategist, advisor, and board member. The website can be found here: www.manutter.com

The past President of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, Nutter is now a professor at Columbia University/SIPA; a political Contributor for CNN; and a member of the Homeland Security Advisory Council, U.S. Department of Homeland Security. He is also a Senior Fellow in the What Works Cities Program for Bloomberg Philanthropies; Chairman, Mayor's International Advisory Council, Airbnb; an Executive Fellow at both Drexel University Lebow College of Business, Institute for Strategic Leadership, and the University of Chicago's Urban Labs; and a Board Member of the City Trusts of Philadelphia.

On January 4th 2016, Michael Nutter completed his two terms as the Mayor of Philadelphia. He continues to be involved in and committed to public service which has shaped his career. Michael Nutter will continue to focus on areas that affect urban communities on every level and encourage the hard conversations and dialogue needed to develop policy and legislative solutions to move our nation forward, in the classroom, the boardroom, in media and on the ground level in cities across America.

The Tactile team worked closely with Nutter and his team to curate a large volume of robust and broad-ranging site content, including TV/radio/podcast materials, speeches, lectures, press coverage, and visual documentation. The material featured on the flexible and responsive website showcases Michael Nutter's career in public service, his achievements and expertise.

"A significant element of Tactile's company mission is community engagement," said President and CEO Marc Coleman, "and we could not be happier about working with Mayor Nutter to help expand his voice in American politics and public policy, while also advancing the discourse about the future of diverse communities and cities, across America and around the world."

The Tactile Group is a Philadelphia-based full solution digital product development company that has been communicating with technology since 2004.
